

Robert has been a licensed real estate professional since 1991 and has specialized in commercial real estate throughout New York City since 2012. His primary focus is representing clients in commercial sales and leasing transactions across New York, with extensive experience navigating commercial real estate deals.

Among his most notable accomplishments is the successful sale of the Herald Square Hotel, now known as the Life Hotel, a landmark transaction that highlights his expertise in the New York City commercial market.

Robert's primary territory is Manhattan, with additional transaction experience throughout Brooklyn, Queens, Long Island, and Upstate New York. He is recognized for his professional, straightforward approach, delivering attentive, efficient service while remaining committed to achieving the best possible outcomes for his clients.

A New Jersey resident, Robert has also been actively involved in public service. He served as Chairman of his local Rent Control Board and completed two four-year volunteer terms as the Ocean County Committeeman for his district. These leadership roles have provided him with extensive knowledge of real estate regulations, homeowner associations, municipal agencies, and the communities they serve.

In addition to his real estate career, Robert founded a successful mobile notary service that provides reliable, professional assistance to attorneys, business owners, caregivers, nursing homes, assisted living facilities, and other real estate professionals.

Zoltek Commercial Real Estate Services is proud to welcome Robert back to the team. His decades of industry experience, market knowledge, and unwavering commitment to client service make him an asset to both our firm and the clients we serve.
